ABOUT "JUNMAI GINJO" STYLE SAKES

The term Junmai is constructed of two kanji that together mean "pure rice." This means that the brew cannot contain any ingredient beyond the principal four of rice, water, yeast and koji. The term Ginjo means "specialized brew." Ginjo grade sakes must use rice polished to at least 60%, and generally employ labor intensive practices resulting in a more refined sake. Therefore, Junmai Ginjo sakes are pure rice brews, with a high polish rate and a specialized method of production.

ABOUT THE BREWERY

Yamagata Honten has been producing handcrafted sake on the southern tip of Japan's main island since 1875. The historic brewery began in the 8th year of the Meiji Restoration. This period marks the end of the shogunate (military rule) and a return to the Emperor as supreme ruler. It also was a period that saw an incredible rise in new sake breweries.

Yamagata Honten maintains a passion for the local ecology by only using locally grown rice from the Yamaguchi prefecture. Notably, they use locally grown Yamadanishiki rice to craft their "Kaori" sake, the flagship Junmai Ginjo grade sake in production since 1984. Yamadanishiki is a very popular sake specific rice varietal. Its large, pure starchy center and low amounts of fats and proteins make it well suited for sake production. In addition to locally sourced rice, a portion of the brewery's earnings are donated to the preservation of the Hooded Crane, the official bird of the Yamaguchi prefecture.

Yamagata Honten puts a focus on crafting Ginjo grade sakes that exhibit a sublime balance which showcases textbook fruity and floral notes on the nose and palate. The team of seven brewers work as artisans to create sake that embodies their motto: "If you drink sake wholeheartedly, you can conquer the world."

TASTING NOTE

Aroma of floral notes such as lily and jasmine followed by ripe yellow apple and Asian pear. Flavor packed with ripe tree fruits and umami, this sake offers round and silky texture. This sake is elegantly rich on the palate, slowly leading to a round lingering finish.

FOOD PAIRING

Stir-fry with sesame oil, crispy tofu with ginger and garlic.
